

A night sky filled with stars. A bright white streak, possibly a meteor or satellite, cuts across the upper right portion of the frame. In the lower right, a soft green aurora is visible. The bottom of the image shows a dark landscape with a fence line and some distant lights.

“The only constant is change, and the rate of change is increasing.”

—Peter Diamandis

Singularity
UNIVERSITY

su.org